Lee will work with you to solve your net needs. With over 40 years in net design and production, Phong Vu, (on right) has retired, but has agreed to consult exclusively with The Fish Net Company. Phong has a Masters degree in net gear design. If needed Lee will consult with Phong to provide you with your best possible net solution.

Experimental or Sampling Gill Nets

Government agencies, biologist, and researchers use these nets to sample fish populations. These nets, normally consisting of several panels of different mesh and twine sizes, are fished horizontally and can be modified to fish vertically.

Trap/Fyke Nets

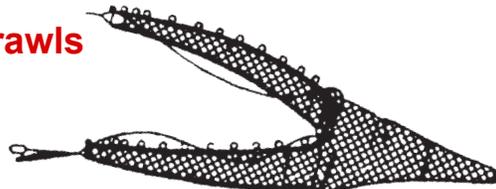

These nets are available with round, square, rectangular, or "D" shaped hoops. Guided by a series of leads and wings, fish enter the trap through the mouth, swim through the throats, and cannot escape.

Although similar to trap/fyke nets in design and function, pound nets are generally much larger. These nets are usually fished on the surface and can be modified to fish on the bottom

Block-off Nets

Block-off nets are used to prevent fish from escaping or entering a certain area. The netting acts as a wall or a fence to restrict the movement of fish. The floats are normally encased in a sleeve to prevent the fish from escaping between the floats.

Trawls

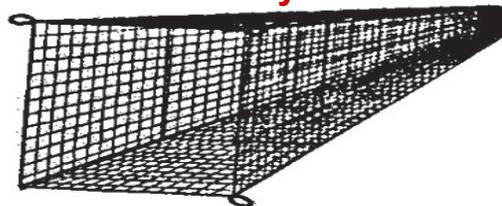

Trawls are large funnel-shaped nets that are pulled behind a boat to "funnel" the fish into the cod or rear end of the net. Trawls can be used on the bottom, mid-water, or on the surface. Trawls are used for many species of fish and shrimp.

Tilapia Seines With 2 Ft. Skirts

We can build the Tilapia Seines with 2 ft. skirts to keep Tilapia from jumping over the net to your specifications.

Tail Race/Recovery Nets

These nets are used primarily for mortality studies of the fish population at hydroelectric dams. The nets usually have an outer liner for strength and an inside liner to protect the fish. The fish are collected in a live box at the cod end of the net.

Paracord

This 100% nylon Paracord has a flat construction that gives it excellent knotting qualities. This strong, durable, abrasion resistant cord is ideal for any application that needs a long lasting UV resistant and rot resistant record.

This twisted twine is treated with a special "Bond" that makes it a little stiff and gives it excellent knotting qualities. The bonding also increases the abrasion resistance of the twine and keeps it from untwisting.

Fisherman's Choice Twine

This twine is ideal for saving money when the high quality of our "Super Brand" twine is not needed. This twine is not quite up to the specifications of our "Super Brand", but is too good to be called seconds. In most cases all that is wrong with it, is a knot or two in the roll.

This twine is sold on an as available basis only.

This 100% nylon line is ideal for laying out foundations, level line for laying brick, and many other construction uses. Don't confuse this line with the "synthetic" line that some hardware stores now sell. This 100% nylon line has the proper stretch, strength, and abrasion resistance that professional carpenters need.

Here at The Fish Net Company we have the trotline hooks you want, and at the best price you can find. We carry a huge inventory of all the hooks in this catalog, so we can make immediate shipment to you. Due to their excellent quality, Mustad is the brand we sell the most. Established in 1832, Mustad is one of the oldest and the largest manufacturers of fish hooks in the world.

No. 31010-DT., No. 31014-SS, and No. 34966ST-DT are straight "Limerick" hooks. They are formed from round wire, and if straightened they can usually be formed back to the proper shape. No.31014-SS is a "Limerick" stainless steel hook. This is a good hook and is ideal for years of fishing where there are a lot of bottom logs, etc. If it is necessary to straighten this hook it can usually be formed back to its proper shape.

No. 31010DT and No. 34966ST-DT have a special coating for rust resistance, but face it folks these are price leaders. If you are going out for a weekend fishing trip or if you loose them fast these hooks are okay. But if you fish long and hard you need to consider a better hook. (No. 34966ST-DT has a high shine and is very popular with Florida fishermen that do not bait.)

No. 34081-DT and No. 34009-SS are straight "O'Shaughnessy" hooks. They are forged to the proper shape and are very strong. (These are the hooks with the flat sides.) Due to being forged these hooks are very hard to straighten, and if you do straighten one it is almost sure to break if you try to return it to its proper shape. We think the No. 34081-DT is one of the best buys you can find in trotline hooks. Most fishermen get a full fishing season out of this hook. If you fish a lot, but occasionally lose a line, this is the hook for you. No. 34009-SS is our top of the line stainless steel for the fisherman that demands the best. If you fish year after year and don't lose too many lines this is the hook for you.

A lot of fishermen that have never used a circle hook comment that they don't see how a fish can get hooked on this hook. But after using them, a lot of people don't want anything else. No. 39960ST-DT is a straight hook, No. 39965-DT is slightly kirbed. The 11/0 hooks have 1/2" gap which is required in some areas.

Soybean Chips

It is usually used alone but can be mixed with cheese when the cheese is too soft to stay in the net. Soybean Chips are a dry odorless bait that are very clean to use. Like the cheese you can use this bait to bait up your favorite fishing hole. Although designed for catfish this bait has been proven to work on scale fish also.

Survival Nets

The most common type survival net is the gill net. Gill nets are vertical panels of netting normally set in a straight line. Fish may be caught by gill nets in 4 ways:

- 1) wedged-held by the mesh around the body
- 2) gilled-held by mesh slipping behind the opercula (Most common)
- 3) tangled-held by teeth, spines, or fins without the body penetrating the mesh
- 4) pulled along the shoreline as a seine to collect a group of fish

To use a gill net simply string it between 2 anchor points and allow it to hang straight down in the water. The top of the net does not need to be at the surface of the water. The net can be strung across a stream, pond, or lake.

In the event no bodies of water is present, the net can be used to catch birds. Simply string it in between 2 trees. For birds such as quail, hang down low. Spook or drive the birds towards the net. With some effort and imagination, the net can also be used to catch rabbits and other small game.

Gill nets are extremely effective and their use is closely regulated by fisheries management and enforcement agencies. When using a gill net in a survival situation, be careful not to catch/keep more fish than can be used or preserved.

In an effort to meet everyone's needs, we offer 5 standard nets ranging from the Hiker to the Doomsday prepper. All 5 nets are made out of nylon due to it being lighter and more effective than monofilament. All nets come assembled and ready for use. If you feel none of these nets fit your needs, simply call us at 1-800-256-5256 and explain your specific situation and what you think your needs are, and we will be more than happy to custom make your survival net.

The "Hiker" is a small, extremely light weight net that is 2" sq mesh measuring 3' H X 15' L. The net comes with a top and bottom string attached. It is perfect to toss into a back pack for emergencies without adding bulk or weight.

The "Camper" is a step up in size that is 2" sq mesh measuring 4' H X 50' L. The net comes with a top string tied in.

Stk No. SG-620100 $94.95 ea

The second option is a 3" sq mesh measuring 6' H X 100' L. The larger mesh allows smaller fish to pass through while catching the larger ones.

Types of Gill Nets

ALL OF THESE NETS ARE MADE IN U.S.A.

Here at The Fish Net Company, we assist fishermen daily in choosing the right type gill net for their particular job. Since there are several different types, we can build a net to fit your need, usually regardless of the specifications.

Flag Net

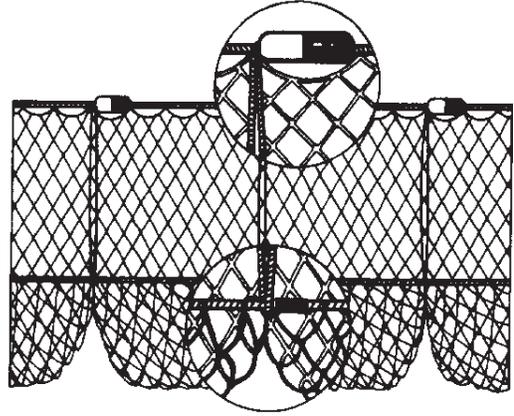

The least expensive type of gill nets is the Flag Net. This net is made of a single sheet of netting, that is suspended by a top string only and is allowed to sink into the water by its own weight. Thus, a flagging type appearance in the water. As this net has no floats or bottom rope, it is the most difficult of the gilling type nets to keep from rolling up in the wind or current. This net must be fished in still water when there is no wind. However, in the last few years, commercial fishermen have been returning to this type net in Monofilament netting, as monofilament does not roll as bad as the nylon netting.

Leaded Gill

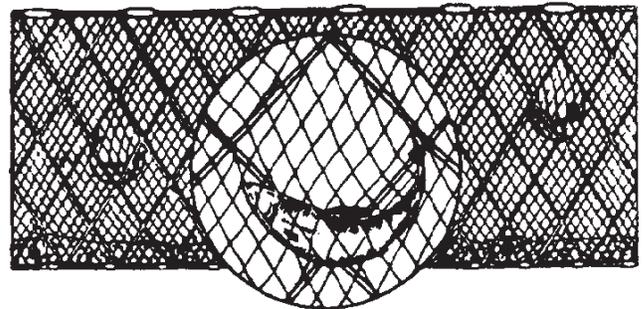

The next step up from the flag net is the Leaded Gill. This is the same netting as is used in the flag nets, but a rope is used on top and bottom and it is customary for this to have floatrope and lead. The main disadvantage of this type net is that it is like a wall in the water and particularly in fresh water the fish will ease up to this net and then back off. It seems that most of the saltwater species of fish are more aggressive than the fresh water fish as they will generally take this type of netting better. It is also ideal for Gar; either fresh or saltwater.

Tie Down Gill Net

The next step above a leaded gill is the Tie Down Gill Net. A Tie Down Net is normally constructed the same as a leaded Gill with the addition of a string every 6 ft. that runs to the bottom of the net and is used to reduce the depth of the net by several feet. This forms slack or bag in the netting. So, when a fish eased up to this net, there will be some netting material loose in the water in which the fish may become entangled. Dollar for dollar, yard for yard, we believe this is one of the best Gill Net purchases you can make.

Trammel Net

The most complex and expensive gill net is the Trammel Net. This is a 3 wall net. The lighter gill netting is sandwiched between 2 larger walls of netting. This means that wherever a fish runs into the net, he will make a bag around himself, even if he doesn't gill as he would in the other type nets. To the fisherman, this means a wider range of fish size and a net that will catch and hold more fish. The Trammel Net is a favorite for Commercial Fisherman.

Monofilament VS Nylon

A tough decision for some fishermen is whether to use Conventional Nylon or Monofilament Netting. Monofilament is also referred to as Glass or Cat Gut netting. Naturally, they both have good features and some disadvantages. First, Nylon is more limp and will bag a fish a little easier than Monofilament. This means a wider range of fish size. Nylon is harder to keep clean because sticks and cockleburrs do hang in this type netting. Monofilament is not quite as strong as nylon, but in clear water, fish will hit the monofilament better because they can't see it as well. Sticks and cockleburrs will fall right out of monofilament netting just by shaking it. Since monofilament is a single stran, it is harder on your hands and more difficult to see when taking your fish out. To sum it all up, if you are fishing clear water, or having trouble with sticks and trash in your nets, a Monofilament Net will work better for you.

Bags for Seines (Sometimes called a pocket)

A bag is a box-shaped section of net. Bags are generally made the full depth of the seine and usually located in the center of the seine. As a seine is being pulled through the water, the fish are herded toward the center of the net. When landing large catches of fish, a center bag will improve the efficiency of your seine. NOTE: Bags will automatically have leads and floats across the mouth (opening). The following chart is for the convenience of customers who would like to know the cost of seines with bags. The size of bag should be same as depth of seine.

BAG SIZE	PRICE OF BAG	EXTRA CHARGE FOR LEADS AND FLOATS (PLEASE SPECIFY)
4'x4'4'	Same price as 24' of seine	+$7.00 per bag
6'x6'x6'	Same price as 36' of seine	+$10.00 per bag
8'x8'x8'	Same price as 48' of seine	+$13.00 per bag
10'x10'x10'	Same price as 60' of seine	+$16.00 per bag
12'x12'x12'	Same price as 72' of seine	+$20.00 per bag

Example: 100' x 6' seine with a 6' x 6' x 6' bag would be the same price as a seine 136' long (100' plus 36' = 136'). The bag adds to length of seine.

Tips for Ordering Seines

When ordering seines use the grading chart to select the correct mesh size. When figuring the length, the rule of thumb is to order the seine 1/3 longer than the widest point you plan to seine. The same applies to the depth, the seine should be approximately 1/3 deeper than the maximum depth of the water. These are only tips to help you to order the correct size seine for your needs and may not apply to all situations.

Baseball/Softball Batting Cages

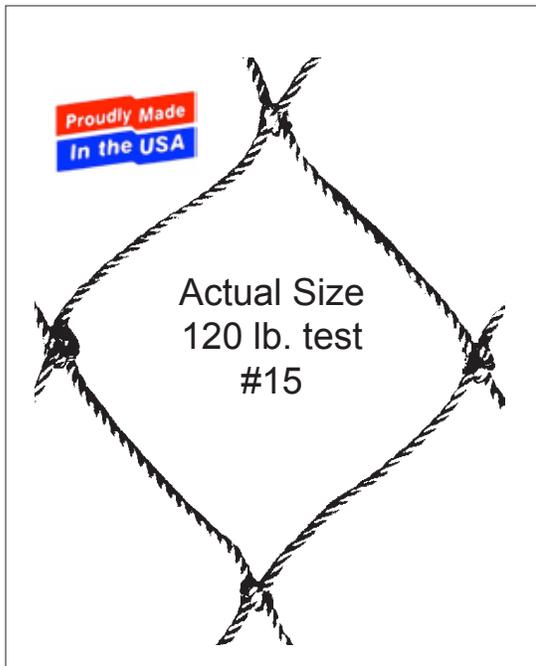

These cages are made with 100% nylon netting. They have a 5/16" braided poly rope along each side and down the center. Each net comes with attached hardware for easy installation. Cages can be custom made to fit existing frames. Ask our salesman for more information. Treatment of these nets with our special coating add weather resistance, UV protection, and improve abrasion resistance for years of continuous use.

If you plan to install your cage with cables, be sure to order the cable option. When this option is ordered we build the cage with spring-loaded clips along each side and down the center every 5'. (Cables are not included.) The ball containment rope option is a weighted rope that is laced through the bottom mesh of the cage to hold down the cage and to help contain the balls. The ball containment option is highly recommended for every cage ordered. All nets are standard black.

Personal Use Batting Cage Nets

Square Mesh Batting Cage Nets

Designed for college, major league and commercial use

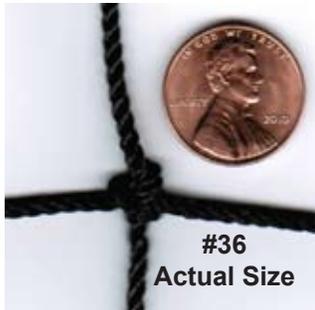

These cages come standard with three top ropes. One down each side and one down the center. They also come standard with a ball containment rope around the bottom. The square mesh makes these cages easy to install for a really professional look. Perhaps that is why they are so popular with the major league teams and the larger universities. The netting used in these, and all our other nets, is made here in the USA and has 3 layers of UV protection. The yarn is treated with UV protection before it is extruded, the twine is dyed black to add a second level of UV protection, and the netting is treated with a coating to add the third layer of UV protection. With the cable option we attach a snap hook every 5' along all three top ropes. (Cables are not included.) All nets are standard black.

- Nylon is the most common material used in sports nets.
(Some companies substitute polyester for nylon when nylon is hard to get. Good, but not as good as nylon.)
- PE (polyethylene) is sold by many companies because it is cheap.
(Polypropylene is sometimes used and is about the same as PE.)
- High performance fibers are starting to gain in popularity, but are still relatively expensive.
Kevlar was the first high performance fiber used, but Kevlar does not have the strength and UV resistance as the more modern UHMWPE (ultra-high-molecular-weight polyethylene) fibers that we call "Ultra". UHMWPE is manufactured by many companies with the most common trade names of Spectra and Dyneema.

Ultra Backstop Nets - Square Mesh

- Nylon is the most common material used in sports nets.
(Some companies substitute polyester for nylon when nylon is hard to get. Good, but not as good as nylon.)
- PE (polyethylene) is sold by many companies because it is cheap.
(Polypropylene is sometimes used and is about the same as PE.)
- High performance fibers are starting to gain in popularity, but are still relatively expensive.
Kevlar was the first high performance fiber used, but Kevlar does not have the strength and UV resistance as the more modern UHMWPE (ultra-high-molecular-weight polyethylene) fibers that we call "Ultra". UHMWPE is manufactured by many companies with the most common trade names of Spectra and Dyneema.
